Sportsmanship Expectations for Youth Participants

Sportsmanship is an important part of growing up. To become contributing, competent, and capable adults, you must develop and learn to value sportsmanlike behavior: you should strive to be a fair and generous competitor, a good loser, and a graceful winner.

All participants in 4-H and other youth programs supported by Penn State Cooperative Extension are expected to demonstrate each of the following elements of sportsmanship before, during, and after their participation in competitive events.

CONDUCT
Demonstrate and maintain high standards of personal behavior and conduct becoming to you as an individual and as a representative of your family, your club, your community, and the 4-H program or other youth program in which you are involved.

FAIRNESS
Learn and follow the rules. Do not cheat. Be objective, honest, and just in evaluating yourself and others.

HONESTY
Be truthful, fair, and straightforward in everything you say and do. Show integrity. Do not lie or deceive. Do your own work. Do not understate or overstate your abilities, skills, or accomplishments.

COMPETITION
Accept that the nature of competition is seeking to get what others are seeking to get; that it involves rivalry between contestants to earn rewards; and that it results in both winners and losers.

COURTESY
Be well-mannered in your conduct. Be respectful, thoughtful, considerate, cooperative, friendly, and cheerful in your attitude and your behavior regardless of whether you do well or not, or whether you win or lose.

Do not argue with the judges or program organizers. When you have concerns, questions, or suggestions, be polite in expressing them.

Be pleasant toward other participants, spectators, program officials, judges, the media, your advisors, parents, and others. Give others the benefit of the doubt. Treat people, animals, and things kindly.

GRACEFUL ACCEPTANCE OF RESULTS
Accept judges’ suggestions and the results with a positive attitude. If you are not selected as a winner or if you receive a lower evaluation than you expect, do not gripe, complain, whine, pout, make excuses, or say you didn’t feel well.

Congratulate those who did win and who performed better than you did. Recognize, appreciate, and try to learn from the accomplishments and admirable traits of others. Recognize, learn from, and try to improve your own shortcomings. Do not protest or make accusations unless you have proof and are willing to personally face the person(s) you are accusing.

If you are selected as a winner or receive a higher evaluation than you expect, graciously thank the people who congratulate you. Be happy but do not gloat, brag, act conceited, or downplay your accomplishments.

Finally, regardless of the outcome, thank your parents, advisors, program organizers, sponsors, judges, and others who helped you.
